When it comes to service connected compensation claims, the VA takes the view that it should not add whole numbers together to get your rating but, instead, the VA takes percentages of percentages. It is as if the VA says if you are 10% disabled then you are 90% healthy.

2020 VA Disability Calculator - Hill & Ponton, P.A.

"VA Math" is the way that the VA computes combined impairment ratings for multiple conditions in a Veteran's compensation claim - and it requires that you unlearn real math. When a Veteran has multiple medical conditions that are service connected, and the VA rates each at a different percentage, it would seem that they should just add up your percentages to get to a total body impairment rating .
